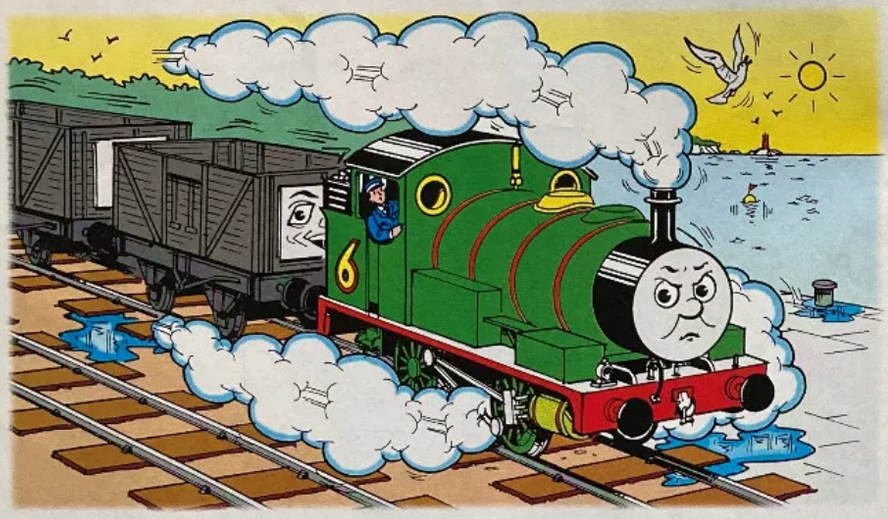
PERCY'S SURPRISE

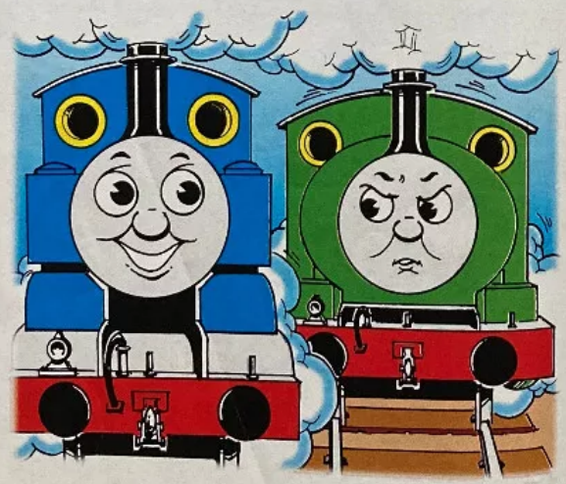
1 One morning, Percy was feeling cross. Thomas saw that Percy was unhappy. "Cheer up, Percy," he said. "You will have a surprise today." "What sort of surprise?" asked Percy. "You will have to wait and see!" replied Thomas.

2 Percy was excited. He could not wait to find out what his surprise was. He went to the quarry to collect his trucks. There were far more trucks than usual. "That's right, Percy," his driver said. "There are extra trucks today as more clay is needed."

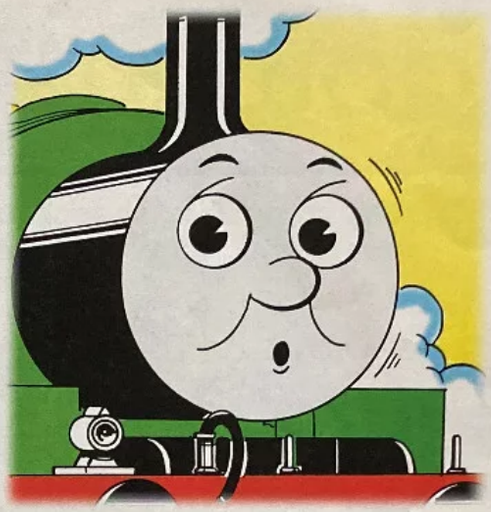
3 Percy was cross again. "So that's what Thomas meant by a surprise," thought Percy. "I don't think that's very nice of him at all." The trucks were rude and bumped Percy, but he got them all to the harbour.

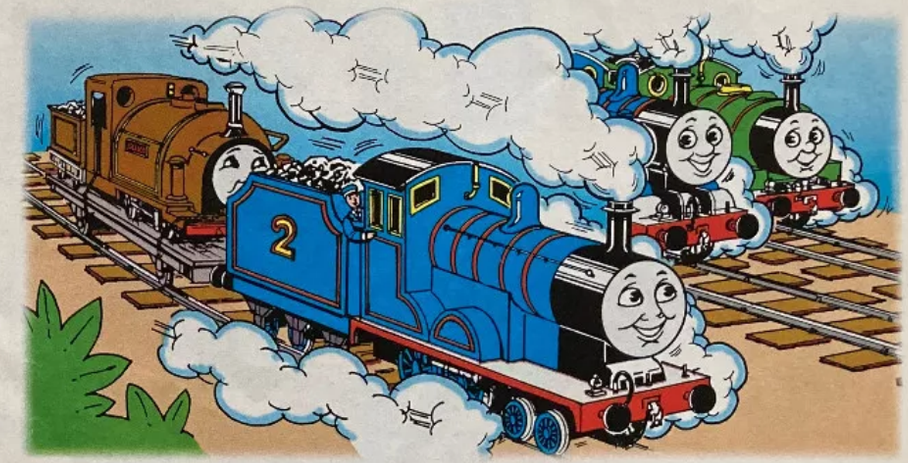


4 Back at the station, Percy saw Thomas. "I don't think much of your surprise," he said. "That was a nasty trick to play on me." "What trick?" asked Thomas. "Telling me I was getting a surprise," replied Percy. "Then I find out that the surprise is extra trucks."



5 "I'm sorry, Percy," said Thomas. "I didn't know anything about the trucks. The surprise is that a special engine is passing through this station. It's Duke - he is going to The Works." "Duke, our hero?" asked Percy. "The little engine who was lost and found?" "The very same," said Thomas. "Here he is with Edward."





6 Sure enough, Edward was pulling a flat wagon on which was the little, old engine called Duke. Percy had heard all about Duke and was very pleased to see him. "Peep peep!" said Percy. "Hello, Duke!" Duke smiled at him. Percy thought that seeing Duke was a very nice surprise indeed.
